From the Pastor's Desk:

On the southern border of the Persian empire of Cyrus, there lived a great chieftain named Cagular who tore to shreds and completely defeated the various detachments of Cyrus' army sent to subdue him. Finally the emperor, amassing his whole army, marched down, surrounded Cagular, captured him, and brought him to the capital for execution. On the day of the trial, he and his family were brought to the judgment chamber. Cagular, a fine-looking man of more than 6 feet, with a noble manner about him was a magnificent specimen of manhood. So impressed was Cyrus with his appearance that he said to Cagular, "What would you do should I spare your life?" "Your Majesty, if you spared my life, I would return to my home and remain your obedient servant as long as I lived." "What would you do if I spared the life of your wife?" "Your Majesty, if you spared the life of my wife, I would die for you." So moved was the emperor that he freed them both and returned Cagular to his province to act as governor thereof. Upon arriving at home, Cagular reminisced about the trip with his wife. "Did you notice," he said to his wife, "the marble at the entrance of the palace? Did you notice the tapestry on the wall as we went down the corridor into the throne room? And did you see the chair on which the emperor sat? It must have been carved from one lump of pure gold." His wife could appreciate his excitement, but she only replied: "I really didn't notice any of that." "Well," said Cagular in amazement, "What did you see?" His wife looked seriously into his eyes and said, "I beheld only the face of the man who said to the emperor that he would die for me." Today's Gospel presents before us the face of God's Son who was sent to die for us, demonstrating God's mercy and love for each one of us.

The story is told of a priest who was coming back to his parish house one evening in the dark only to be accosted by a robber who pulled a gun at him and demanded, "Your money or your life!" As the priest reached his hand into his coat pocket the robber saw his Roman collar and said, "So you are a priest? Then you can go." The priest was rather surprised at this unexpected show of piety and so tried to reciprocate by offering the robber his packet of cigarettes, to which the robber replied, "No, Father, I am a practicing Catholic. I don't smoke during Lent."

Nota de nuestro pastor

En la frontera sur del imperio Persa de Ciro, vivía a un gran cacique llamado Cagular que rompió en pedazos y derrotó completamente a los diferentes destacamentos del ejército Cyrus enviado para someterlo.

Finalmente el emperador, acumulando todo su ejército marchó, rodeando a Cagular, lo capturó y lo trajo a la capital para su ejecución. En el día del juicio, él y su familia fueron llevados a la sala de juicio. Cagular, un hombre apuesto de más de 6 pies, con una manera noble, era un magnífico ejemplar de hombría. Estaba tan impresionado Cyrus con su aspecto que le dijo a Cagular, "¿Qué haría usted para prescindir de tu vida?" "Su Majestad, si perdona mi vida, me regreso a mi casa y sería su humilde servidor mientras viva." "¿Qué harías si salvo la vida de tu esposa?" "Su Majestad, si perdona la vida de mi esposa, moriría por ud." Tan conmovido quedo el emperador que liberó a los dos y devolvieron a Cagular a su provincia para actuar como su gobernador. Al llegar a casa, Cagular reflexionó sobre el viaje con su esposa. "Viste," le dijo a su esposa, "el mármol en la entrada del Palacio. ¿Notaste el tapiz en la pared cuando fuimos por el pasillo a la sala del trono? ¿Y viste la silla en la que el emperador estaba sentado? Lo han deber tallado de un bulto de oro puro." Su esposa pudo apreciar su excitación, pero ella sólo respondió:

"Realmente no vi nada de eso." "Bueno", dijo Cagular asombrado, "¿Qué viste?" Su esposa lo miró seriamente a los ojos y le dijo: "Vi solamente la cara del hombre que le dijo al emperador que moriría por mí". El Evangelio de hoy presenta ante nosotros el rostro del Hijo de Dios quien fue enviado para morir por nosotros, demostrando la misericordia de Dios y su amor por cada uno de nosotros.

Se cuenta la historia de un Sacerdote que volvía a su casa parroquial una noche en la oscuridad sólo para ser abordado por un ladrón quien le apuntó con un arma y exigió, "tu dinero o tu vida!"

¿Cuando el Sacerdote metió su mano en el bolsillo de su abrigo el ladrón vio el cuello romano y le dijo, "así que usted es un Sacerdote? Entonces puedes irte." El Sacerdote bastante sorprendido por esta inesperada muestra de piedad, trató de reciprocár al ladrón ofreciéndole su paquete de cigarrillos, a lo que el ladrón le respondió, "No, Padre, yo soy un Católico practicante. Yo no fumo durante la Cuaresma".

Vatican Corner

On Saturday evening March 7, 2015, Pope Francis celebrated Mass at All Saints Church in Rome in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the first time Mass was offered in the local vernacular language – (Italian) rather than in Latin. Pope Francis concluded his homily recalling that it was here “in a certain sense,” that Blessed Pope Paul VI, in 1965 “inaugurated the liturgical reform” of the Second Vatican Council, with the celebration of the Mass “in the language of the people.” Pope Francis expressed his hope that this occasion would revive in everyone a great “love for the house of God.”

In 1963 the bishops of the Second Vatican Council decided that at least part of the liturgy should be in the language of the people. They gave the local bishops the responsibility to decide whether, and to what extent, the vernacular language was to be used. Their decrees were then to be confirmed by Rome. The Council’s bishops determined that national groups (conferences) should prepare translations of the Latin texts into the vernacular languages (English, Italian, French, German, Spanish, etc.). Bishops from English speaking countries (Australia, Canada, England and Wales, India, Ireland, New Zealand, Pakistan, Scotland, South Africa and the United States) working together created one translation group: the International Commission on English in the Liturgy (ICEL). The Philippines became the eleventh ICEL member in 1967, and there were 15 other associated conferences where English was not the predominant language. The ICEL gathered English translators, poets, biblical scholars and others to produce the English texts. It quickly became evident that once begun, vernacular translations had to go the whole way, translating the entire Mass and the other sacraments. The ICEL was guided in their translation work by a 1969 instruction document. It gave translators the freedom to adapt the translation of the Latin text so that its meaning would be clearer in the vernacular and to avoid a literal translation of the Latin. The document said the translation should be written in a language suited “even (to) children and persons of small education”. This was in keeping with a desire on the part of translators to make sacred things accessible to as many people as possible. Although praiseworthy, this desire, taken to extreme lengths, could lead to an oversimplification of sacred texts and fear of falsification. So for example, prior to Vatican II, the Latin response of the people to the priest, “ET cum spiritu tuo, “ which literally means “And with your spirit,” when translated into English became “And also with you.”
